This file contains information regarding the source code, installation, and reproducing results for both the DeepCRS and KBRD, which are representatives of language generation-based systems.

DeepCRS:
The source code of DeepCRS is publicly available on the GitHub platform. The detailed instructions regarding the installation and reproducibility of the results are also mentioned. The source code with installation guidelines can be found in the below link.

https://github.com/RaymondLi0/conversational-recommendations

KBRD:
The source code for KBRD system is also available on the GitHub. The authors have also provided the guidelines to install and reproduce the results. The source code with installation guidelines can be found in the below link.

https://github.com/THUDM/KBRD